How to Grow DAFFODILS

Daffodils are very easy to grow, requiring no summer care and, as they are not eaten by gophers and have few diseases they are an excellent garden investment.

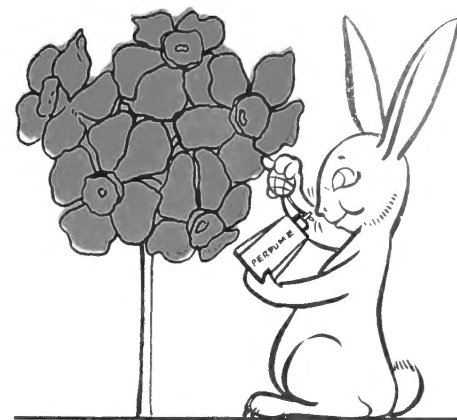

Plant daffodils deeply. Most varieties thrive when put four to six inches under ground. Dig the soil eighteen inches deep before planting if possible. This allows for ample development of the roots.

Irrigate the soil thoroughly as soon as the bulbs are planted so as to start root growth at once. Natural rainfall is normally sufficient to keep daffodils growing up to blooming season. They should never be allowed to become dry, however.

After blooms have withered, cut off dead flowers, cultivate the soil and stir in bone meal, Gaviota, or any good commercial fertilizer. Irrigate often enough to keep the foliage green and growing for four to six weeks longer. Do not cut foliage until it turns yellow.

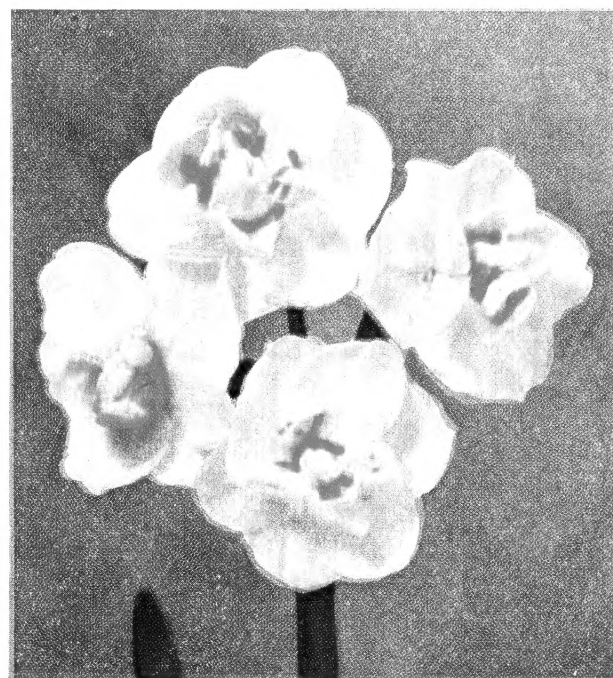

Daffodil bulbs do not need to be divided oftener than once in three to five years. They may be safely left in the ground all summer and covered over with shallow rooted summer-flowering annuals.

Our Narcissi bulbs are of the largest size and are all "Double-nose"; that is, each bulb will produce two or more flower stalks.

ROEDING'S QUALITY TULIPS NORTHWEST - GROWN

ORANGE KING

Success WITH TULIPS

Success in tulip growing in California is dependent on three factors: time of planting, depth of planting, and quality of the bulbs planted.

From October to December is the best time for planting tulips, although planting may be done up to the early part of January. If planting is done late in the winter, it is best to plant where the tulips will receive partial shade, as too much sun may cause the late-planted tulips to open too soon, which will result in short-stemmed flowers of inferior size.

Plant tulip bulbs 6 inches deep in sandy soil and 5 inches deep in heavy soil; that is, the top of the bulbs should be covered with that depth of soil. Place a handful of sand under each bulb and water thoroughly after planting. Tulips do best when the soil is cool and moist. Do not mix any fresh manure or chemical fertilizer in the soil where it will come in contact with the bulbs. If the soil is of poor quality, dig in some well-rotted cow manure several weeks in advance of planting.

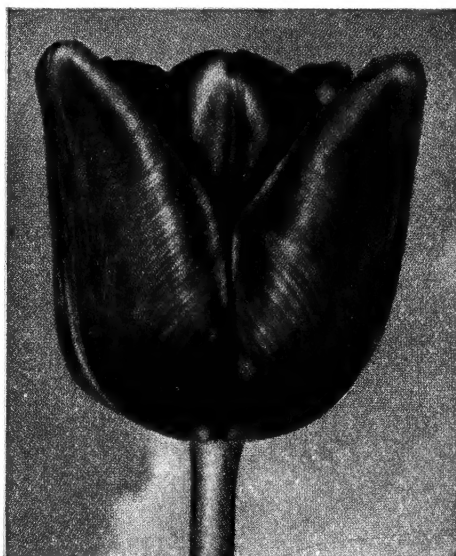

The quality of the flowers your tulips produce will depend more on the size and vigor of the bulbs you plant than on any other one thing. When you consider the time and labor that you put into growing your tulips it is wisest to plant only the best grade of bulbs.

For mass plantings, tulips may be planted as close as 4 inches apart, though 6 inches is better. Groups of six or more of a variety will be found more effective than an indiscriminate mixture.

The long-stemmed, single tulips which succeed best in California are divided into three classes: Darwins, Breeders and Cottage. As all of these bloom at approximately the same time in California, they may be planted together to obtain desirable color combinations. Practically all of the clear yellows and most of the white and light pinks are found in the Cottage Tulips. Darwins produce the best clear reds and also the larger part of the lavender, mauve and pinks. Among the Breeders are found the rich shades of bronze, violet and mahogany-reds, usually with copper or gold tints. Some of the largest and tallest varieties are found in the Breeder class.

RANUNCULUS

How to Succeed with ANEMONES and RANUNCULUS

Rainy winters impress the necessity for good drainage in beds planted to anemones and ranunculus. They will not grow in soil saturated from heavy rainfall, but will reward us with countless flowers if we are careful in planting. Raise the soil level in beds devoted to these flowers so that when planted the bulbs will be above the surface level of surrounding terrain. Soak bulbs for one hour before planting; plant October-December at depth of 2 to 3 inches, with small "prongs" down. Be sure to keep the soil moist until rains begin. Bulbs will not grow if the soil dries out before foliage appears.

FREESIAS, TRITONIAS, BABIANAS SPARAXIS AND BABY GLADIOLUS: Plant as early as bulbs can be obtained, in light, well-drained soil in full sun. Keep soil moderately moist. Bulbs may be left in soil or dug each year after foliage ripens.

PEACE

PLANT PAT.
No. 591

PEACE. R.52. (Mme. A. Meiland.) Plant Patent No. 591. Offered this fall for the first time, this is the only rose to win the 1946 All-America Rose Selections Award. One marvel of this rose is the range of colors through which it passes, from opening yellow buds, with edges picoted cerise, to glorious five-inch blooms of alabaster-white. Each petal is edged with pink that seems to deepen as the flowers slowly open. Though the bloom is unusually large, its effect is that of a delicate and almost ethereal loveliness. The large individual petals gradually open, a few at a time, around a high-pointed center heart of tawny yellow.

The vigorous plant is as superior as the bloom, with clean, holly-like glossy foliage. Flowers, borne singly on strong straight stems, are unusually long lasting. For best results, the partially-opened buds should be cut when pink begins to show in the margin of the petals. Blooms are produced in succession throughout the season. A single plant shows, at one time, bloom in various stages of opening and changing colors — canary yellow, pale gold, cream, ivory and alabaster-white; cerise, soft rose, apple-blossom pink and finally, a soft pink-lavender. We recommend this rose for all sections without reservation. Price $2.50 each.

NOTE: We have a limited supply of PEACE available in 5-gallon containers for immediate shipment. Shipping weight about 75 pounds via express collect. $3.50 each.

We reserve the right to limit the quantity per customer.

MIRANDY

MIRANDY. R47. Plant Patent No. 632. The red rose All America winner for 1945. Large ovoid buds are deep dark red with black shading, open to rich chrysanthemum red blooms. The fragrance is full-bodied and delicious. Foliage excellent in warm sections, requires a little attention near the coast. $2.50.

LOWELL THOMAS
© C-P Co.

LOWELL THOMAS. R37. Plant Pat. 595. Of vibrant chrome color, the vigorous growth and general air of optimism about this glorious new Rose make it suitable to bear the name Lowell Thomas. Blooms open from beautiful buds, have a high center, the petals rolling outward, making magnificent, glowing flowers. $2.00.
